A certain sharpshooter, Yosukehisa Iwasa, had once shot down a bunch of bandits, who were trying to kidnap his son. The bandits had been led by a man named Kurochirō, who was the son of a famous swordsman named Kurochirō Kōzō. Kōzō had been a student of the famous swordsman Kōjirō Kōtoku, and he had learned his skills from him.
Kōzō had been a very skilled swordsman, and he had been known as one of the best swordsmen in the land.
He had been a member of the Shinsengumi, a group of rōnin who had been hired to protect the Emperor.
Kōzō had been a member of the Shinsengumi for many years, and he had fought in many battles against the Bakufu forces. He had been a very brave and courageous soldier, and he had always fought with great skill and determination.
